

RIGHT-OF-WAY IS ALMOST SECURED

Three-fourths of Route of Branch
To Driggs, Idaho,
Signed Up.

CONSTRUCTION DUE IN MAY

George S. Young in From Teton Basin
To Confer With Oregon Short Line Officials.

Practically three-fourths of the right of way of the new road from Ashton, Idaho, to Driggs has been secured and the gaps will be closed before May 1. This work was brought to Salt Lake this morning by George S. Young, one of the committee of citizens of Teton valley which waited on General Manager W. H. Bancroft of the Oregon Short Line a couple of weeks ago on the proposition.

"No trouble at all has been experienced in securing the right of way," said Mr. Young. "Engineer Harris is now on the ground closing up the deals for the railroad company and Mr. Bancroft assures me that just as soon as the entire 40 miles has been closed up then dirt will begin to fly. On this showing we expect to have the construction outfit on the ground by the first week in May and the line running and in operation in time to handle the big crops which invariably are the feature of farming in Teton basin. Farmington is now in full blast in our section and a big acreage has been planted for two weeks past under the splendid spring conditions we have been enjoying this year."

"Residents in the basin are jubilant over the promise of the railroad and we look for considerable activity in farming lands in consequence this year."

Mr. Young is down from Idaho today for the purpose of meeting with the Oregon Short Line officials in regard to the proposed line.

Officials of Ladies of Macabees Are Tendered an Informal Reception.

Yesterday Miss Bina E. West and Mrs. Alice B. Locke of the Ladies of the Macabees, the first holding the office of supreme record keeper of the world, and the second state commander of a division, including Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and Montana, were guests of honor at an informal reception given by officers of the Relief Society and Y. L. M. L. and Primary associations at their apartments in the Bishop's building, visiting the different quarters. Both ladies expressed themselves as delighted with their visit and a desire that they might have as convenient and luxurious headquarters for their own organization. Miss West who was in the city some four years ago spoke with enthusiasm of the many changes she noted and believes that Salt Lake has a great future. Miss West has spent many years traveling in Europe, the Holy Land and elsewhere, and during one of these journeys met the family of Julius Wells, who was present yesterday and at whose home the ladies have been entertained. Miss West leaves today for Los Angeles and Mrs. Locke for her home in Denver.

WOULD-BE SUICIDE CRAZY.

J. T. Fitzgerald Will in All Probability
Be Committed to Mental Hospital.

J. T. Fitzgerald, who attempted to commit suicide Tuesday night in the city jail by cutting his throat and wrist with a copper wire, was sent to the county jail today, pending a hearing on the charge of insanity. Fitzgerald went to police headquarters Tuesday evening and told the police that a gang of men were after him with the intention of murdering him. He was placed in a cell on the second floor of the jail, but was "hooked" only as a lodger. Wednesday morning Jailer Nick Gulbransen found the man lying in a pool of blood, and with a gash in his throat and another in the left wrist. Fitzgerald had got hold of a piece of copper wire and tried to commit suicide. He will probably be committed to the state mental hospital at Provo.

HALLEY'S COMET IS SEEN BY NAKED EYE

University Faculty Members Observe
It Rise Over The Eastern Mountain
Tails Tail and All.

Without the aid of a telescope, Halley's comet was seen at 4:43 o'clock this morning from the University of Utah campus by Prof. J. L. Gibson and Prof. T. Arnoldson. The tail of the comet was also visible to the naked eye and the nebulousity around the head of the comet could also be seen. For an hour after the comet became visible, Prof. Gibson followed it with a telescope. It rose two degrees in the sky, and the sun rises which is about two-thirds of the distance from the peak on the top of Red Butte canyon and the gully formed by Emigration canal. It appeared to be a star of the third magnitude and shown brightly. The tail could not be located at first but when it rose a few degrees the tail appeared at one side. Under the telescope, the tail appeared to be a streamer of light and could be followed for two degrees. When daylight appeared on the eastern horizon the comet faded away. Prof. Gibson said:

"As it seems to approach the sun, it will rise nearly at the same time as the sun. While it appears to approach the sun it in reality does not, as it is now as near the sun as it will get for the next 75 years. It will now begin to travel away from the sun. With the aid of a telescope the comet was seen several months ago, but as it is now as near the sun as it will get for the next 75 years, it has been seen with the naked eye. The comet has just passed its perihelion. This is the point where in this part of the country it is nearest the sun."

"The tail of a comet is a streamer of bright light. As the comet approaches the sun the tail follows it. It is composed of burning gases and dust. The tail of Halley's comet is about 1,000,000 miles in diameter. Most of this great volume, however, is composed of burning gases. The actual density of Halley's comet, if compact, would be about that of an iron ball 100 miles in diameter."

"The tail of Halley's comet has been traced for a distance of 2 1/2 degrees, or about five moon diameters. The speed of the comet is rapidly increasing, and on May 15 it will be sailing through space at the rate of 1,875 miles per minute as it starts on its return trip beyond the orbit of Neptune, more than 275,000,000 miles out into space. When the wanderer passes the earth on May 18 its speed will be a little slower, it then reeling off miles at the rate of 1,500 per minute. This is a little more than the velocity of the earth, traveling at the rate of 1,110 miles per minute."

FORGOT SAFETY CATCH.

Joe Tolliver Thereby Forfeits His Life
While Displaying Pistol.

Joe Tolliver, well known at Vernal, accidentally shot and killed himself there Wednesday afternoon while showing a friend how an automatic pistol worked. Tolliver was in the barber shop of Will Winn and while being shown how to draw the pistol from his pocket he pulled the trigger. The weapon was in his right hand and he pulled the trigger. Tolliver had neglected to push the safety catch and his life paid for the carelessness. The weapon exploded and Tolliver fell over the side of the chair dead.

Tolliver came from Rock Springs where he was well known. He leaves a wife and several children. A coroner's inquest was held and a verdict returned that he came to his death by his own hand. A few days before the fatality, Tolliver purchased a lot in the cemetery at Vernal and remarked to some of his friends that he would have use for it before long.

MAYOR DISAPPROVES ACT.

Mayor Bransford has vetoed the resolution of the city council ordering the Oregon Short Line railroad company to vacate Third West street between South Temple and First South street. The resolution was passed at the council session held Monday evening, and ordered the railroad company to move the street curb and gutter back to the old line. In the franchise given the railroad company to build their new passenger station a portion of Third West was given to the company "for railroad purposes." The company did not run any tracks along the strip granted, but instead proceeded to beautify it with lawns and plantings. The mayor is of the opinion that the parking is an improvement to the street, and still comes within the term "railroad purposes" and that the council's resolution back to the council without his signature.

GREAT DIFFERENCE BETWEEN SURVEYS

Climax in Kearns Case Reached
This Morning When Maps Are Compared.

TWENTY-SIX SECTIONS SHOWN

Of These Twenty-two Show Discrepancies, Brooks' Maps Showing
Workings as Much Smaller.

When Frank Anderson, surveyor for the Silver King Consolidated Mining company, produced the maps of his survey of the Parson's slope this morning, in the hearing of the court against the Silver King Consolidated Mines company before Special Examiner John W. Christy to recover $5,000,000 for ore alleged to have been stolen, a vast difference was shown in the size of cavities as represented by C. P. Brooks' survey. The heady parallel between the two surveys were introduced some time ago. Out of 26 sectional maps of the Parson's slope only four agreed in the two surveys and the other 22 differed materially in many respects. Anderson testified that he had made the survey, and that his figures had been reduced 40 per cent. by the court. Anderson, who also made a survey, and then that both of them had made the survey together. With the result of these two surveys carefully checked the maps were made.

Only three of the sectional planes of the slope were introduced this morning when the hearing adjourned until 2 o'clock. The heady parallel between the two surveys and Anderson's survey was shown in black lines and delicate shades of pink. By taking an exact measure of the slope, the Silver King Consolidated has introduced these maps in an effort to discredit the exhibits and the survey made by C. P. Brooks, who is a member of the board of public works, besides being an employee of the Consolidated Mines company.

The consolidated expects to show by these maps the exact size of the Parson's slope, and the quantity of ore extracted. The waste materials, saved into the slope after it was gutted have also been measured and the quantity will be shown.

In this interesting exhibit marked "2-T, 3-26," section No. 3 was the first one introduced. The plans of the sections of the two surveys correspond, taking part of the underground workings. The Blue slope which is a part of Parson's slope differs in the position of the roof. Anderson's survey shows the roof to be 34 feet higher than Brooks, making considerable difference in the size of the slope at that point. The position of the cave is different. The elevation is found 34 feet higher than represented by Brooks and further to the southeast.

Section No. 4 was the next which showed a difference in the size of the Blue slope. Anderson found the roof four feet higher than Brooks. The position of the 1,200-foot level, and the cave raised do not correspond. In section No. 5, which was the last one introduced before adjourning for noon, showed that the Brown and the Blue slopes, which are part of the Parson's slope, correspond, but the position of the Cave drift and the elevation differed.

MORE THIS AFTERNOON.

During the afternoon session, the remainder of the sections were introduced and Anderson pointed out the discrepancies in the existing records. More maps will be introduced Friday and then Anderson will show the discrepancy in figures which exist between the two surveys.

Some of the morning session was taken up by Anderson in the examination of Brooks' maps. He pointed out a number of things in the map and some mistakes were corrected in the survey books, introduced by Brooks.

PLAINTIFF MOVES DISMISSAL.

On motion of the plaintiff's attorney the case of F. R. Kellogg et al. against the Gold Springs Mining & Power company was dismissed. Judge Armstrong's court this morning. The suit was brought to recover the sum of $386.53, balance alleged to be due for gas and merchandise furnished by plaintiff to the Jennie Gold Mining company, which the defendant corporation took over on June 1, 1909. The original bill was $1,410, on which the sum of $250 had been paid. The matter was settled out of court, and hence the order dismissing was entered this morning.

BRAMWELL AIRRAIGNED.

Walter Bramwell, charged with forgery and uttering a forged instrument, pleaded not guilty to both counts in Judge Lewis' court this morning. Bramwell is alleged to have forged the name of A. G. Brim to a check issued on the Richfield Commercial & Savings bank on Oct. 18, 1909, and which was cashed at the Merchants bank in Salt Lake City. His trial was set for May 2.

JUSTICE COURT ESTOPPED.

Judge Lewis this morning issued an alternative writ of prohibition preventing Justice Bishop of Precinct No. 2 from sentencing Woo Joe, proprietor of the Empire cafe on the charge of selling liquor without a license. Woo Joe was convicted in Justice Bishop's court of selling beer to two young couples who went to his restaurant late at night for noodles and beer. The suit was to have been pronounced today. The attorneys for Woo Joe took the matter into the district court upon the representation that the irregularities found in the complaint which nullified the entire proceeding, and asked for a writ of prohibition. Judge Lewis issued the alternative writ returnable Saturday, when the matter will be argued in the district court.

FOUR YEARS FOR BROWN.

Youth of Seventeen Years Goes to Prison for Burglary.

Burt Brown, who pleaded guilty with George X. Wilson to robbing the residence of Wallace Bransford of jewelry and money valued at $100 on the 24th of last month, was sentenced by Judge Lewis this morning to serve four years at hard labor in the state prison. Brown is only 17 years old, and when Wilson was sentenced Tuesday to five years in the state prison, Judge Lewis postponed the sentencing of Brown until he could look up the young fellow's record. Brown asked to be sentenced to the state industrial school, so that he might learn a trade during his confinement. The judge was evidently satisfied that Brown had been a character of good character the last few years, as he had "hooked" over the country from one end to the other. He therefore imposed the sentence of four years in the state penitentiary.

SUES ON OLD NOTE.

H. W. Brown this morning filed suit in the Third district court against E. H. Brown for $5,522.47. His wife filed suit against the defendant in holding out on him. On June 30, 1904, a note of the Salt Lake & Mercur Railroad company was endorsed by Brown and Bern, of which $475.38 remained unpaid. Bern and Airis took this note up, Bern paying one-third and Airis two-thirds, or $11,694.94. Brown then reimbursed Airis for half that amount, or $5,822.47, to cover his liability as an endorser. He says that on Jan. 1, 1905, the Salt Lake & Mercur Railroad company paid to Airis the amount he had paid and that Airis had not paid Brown back his share. Brown now asks judgment for the amount and for interest from June 30, 1904.

HER HUSBAND GAMBLER.

Says His Money Is Low When Cited Into Court.

Joseph Stiner, admitted in Judge Morse's court Wednesday afternoon that he was a gambler and trade his living by gambling in Salt Lake City. He was summoned into court to show cause why he should not pay temporary alimony to E. Annette Stiner, who filed a divorce action against him a few days ago charging him with gross cruelty. Stiner cuts a poor figure in the rear of a cigar store south of the Orpheum theater, but said he had not been making much money. He said he had a "money" yesterday. Judge Morse told him he would have to pay his wife's attorney $25 before filing answer to his wife's charges. Stiner agreed to pay $100 per week as temporary alimony. They were married at Monticima, Wash., Dec. 20, 1909.

BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS.

The liabilities amounted to $5,975, of which $4,000 were secured by jewelry and notes. The assets consisted of stock and household goods valued at $1,000, and jewelry valued at $3,000.

George F. Ogden was also released from his past financial obligations. He owed $479 and had nothing in the line of assets with the exception of a suit of clothes valued at $35.

A petition of Hans Olsen, a carpenter, was referred to Charles Baldwin as referee. The liabilities are placed at $483.90 and the assets at $250. This includes a lot in Lincoln park which is valued at $750.

W. A. Zeigler, a printer, has asked the court to discharge his liabilities. The liabilities are named as $327.73 and the assets $163.50.

First Straw Hat of Season Causes All Sorts of Sensations

One of the professors of astronomy at the university caused a veritable stampede this morning when he announced, in the early hours, that he had discovered a new planet, with a very marked dark ring, all same Saturn. There was all sorts of excitement and many a learned man forsook his couch before his wonted time in order to take a peep at the unique phenomenon.

But the professor came in for all sorts of contumely when it was found, after the learned ones had sighted through the lenses and compared notes, that it was nothing but the first straw hat of the season which appeared upon an exposed street of the city and by its phenomenal scintillations had attracted the rays of the refracting telescope which was being used. And then everybody went back to the land of nod and dreamed dreams of just what style of straw or Panama they should resort to or purchase to bring them into the focus of the great telescope.

The fact of the matter is that a newspaper man was the first to break loose with a straw lid for the season. It mattered not that he wore miniature "chaps" and an abbreviated overcoat of the "blackman" pattern. He bore the very general attention and scrutiny of passersby—stoppers and "rubbers"—with equanimity, and pursued the even tenor of his way reveling in the fact that he had got there first with "the goods." The quips of the newsboys and others of like ilk were shed with the facility of the proverbial duck and the aqueous liquid.

Coming down to "cases," that "sky" picture was an education. The window dressers of the various "batteries" of the city began to get very busy when they saw that many a form, with all its bravery, both morally and millinery, strutting along oblivious to all environment. Canvases were stretched along the windows and in a few hours there was a dazzling display of everything that pertains to straw, from a male hat standpoint. The women, who have had a trust on straw for a number of moons, got envious and discarded everything in that line and confined themselves to "Chanticleers" and soft crushes.

Immaculate Panamas were on exhibit in the various windows, all sorts and styles of glued straw sombreros, lids in all shapes and forms, rakish cowboy styles which made one year for the old youthful days, and all because one newspaper man had set the fashion. There was a regular rush for straws and the dealers who "got into" are thinking about getting up a purse for the enterprising scribe.

The fashions in straws are going to follow very closely those of last year, with one exception that there is to be the tipped front and side which has characterized the heavier hats for the younger set during the winter. Panamas will be more than ever in favor, with the old time round block with straight stiff brim always in evidence, and the more conservative. The band will be in sober colors, except among the college boys, who will be provided with as loud an accompaniment as the desire. The brims will be somewhat broader with a marked inclination toward saner patterns.
